Distributes Protest Tax

County Treasurer Clarence Lipman (R) has distributed over $267,000 to taxing bodies in 22 Will County townships, according to Assistant Treasurer W.F. Schuetz.

Schuetz said the distribution resulted from the disposition of over 400 1966 tax protest cases.

"When a tax is paid under protest, the money goes into a separate fund until the case is settled," he explained.

Schuetz indicated that most of the funds distributed yesterday resulted from the failure of taxpayers who had paid under protest to file in the courts within the statutory limit.

Additional funds will be distributed in mid-February according to Schuetz. These will consist of the collection of back taxes from 1967 and 1968.

Taxing bodies in Frankfort Township divided $5,602.73 while those in New Lenox Township split $8,292.68.

In Frankfort Township, Lincoln-Way High School received the largest amount, $2,129; Mokena Grade School Dist. 159 got $1,341; Frankfort Dist. 157-C, $519; Summit Hill (Arbury Hills) Dist. 161, $148 and Ann Rutledge Dist. 56-C, $11.65. A total of $410 was delivered to the township. The Village of Frankfort received $160 and the Village of Mokena, $149; The Mokena park district received $76 and the Mokena district library, $47.

The division in New Lenox Township: N.L. School Dist. 122, $2,750; School Dist. 159 (a corner of the Mokena grade district lies in New Lenox Township) $200; L-W High Dist. 210, $2,796; JTHS Dist. 204, $526; Village of New Lenox, $240; Township Library, $54; total for town purposes, $535.

Been, 4 each.

For Oak Lawn, Parks had 18, Nowicki, 13, Sullivan, 11, Wesselhoff, 6, Kuppec, 5 and Stenbom, 2.

The Knights have a 5-2 standing in the SWS conference.

In other conference tilts Bremen beat Evergreen Park, 70 to 57; Sandburg defeated Rich East, 55-49, and those ever winnin' Vikings of Homewood - Flossmoor clobbered Reavis, 79-57.

After a shaky start and giving away height, the Lincoln-Way basketball team coached by Tom Lewis turned back Oak Lawn last Friday night and when all the scoring was over it was 65 for the Knights and 55 for the Spartans.

Lincoln-Way was behind at the end of the first quarter, 19 to 16. And when two minutes and 50 seconds had been played in the second quarter the host school had increased its lead another point and it was 27-23.

Then John Minger hit and seconds later Harold Webb counted to tie the count, and in the last three minutes the Knights were showing what happens to a zone defense when the offense is on target. When the half ended the Knights were on top, 39 to 30. They topped the Spartans 17 to 14 in the third frame and while Oak Lawn scored 11 points to the Knights' 9 in the final stanza, the Lincoln-Ways were in no danger then.

Altho the Spartans fielded a taller team the Knights were able to best them at the boards.

Webb was top scorer of the evening with 21 points but the whole team was in the point column. Terry Ryan had 14. Otto and Palka each counted eight points, Minger, 6, and Loucks and

Biddle Family Fund Is Near $20,000 Mark

A generous public, its sympathy kindled by the plight of the surviving members of the Biddle family of Orland Township left destitute when a fire destroyed their home and took the lives of five members, have contributed approximately $20,000 to a fund set up in their name.

The Biddles resided at 15825 113th Ct. About 5:45 a.m. Dec. 20, fire swept thru the dwelling, killing five of the occupants, Marian Biddle, 50, husband and father, a daughter, 14-year-old Georgianne; two sons, Matthew, 9, and Daniel, 7, and Mrs. Noreen Biddle's father, John Hunt, 80.

A daughter, Jean Marie, 16, escaped thru an upper window but is still in serious condition at Christ Community Hospital, suffering from second and third degree burns, and two sons, John, 19, and Thomas, 14, a twin of Georgianne, fled the burning house with minor burns. Mrs. Biddle got back to the home in time to see smoke and flame. She had taken an older daughter, Rena, to the train at Mokena. Rena works at the Chicago post office.

The Biddles are members of St. Michael Catholic Church at Orland Park. Fellow parishioners have contributed some $13,000 to the Biddle Family Fund, including a collection of more than $500 from the pupils in the school. Other churches in the village took up collections and residents of the area sent in some $5,000 to the Biddle Family Fund at the Orland State Bank.

John Biddle, is employed in the therapy department at Christ Community Hospital at Oak Lawn and employees at the hospital donated $950 which was given to Mrs. Biddle last week.

John, a former track and cross country runner at Sandburg High School who also served as business manager of the school newspaper, was graduated from there in 1967. Jean Marie is a junior. Georgianne was a freshman as is her brother Tom. Last Thursday and Friday at the luncheon period at Sandburg members of the student council collected $530 from fellow students, office personnel and faculty members. George Scholz, council president who coordinated the effort, said a check will be sent to Mrs. Biddle this week.

This Saturday the Teens of St. Michael will sponsor a dance in the auditorium at the school, from 7:30 to 10:30. Music will be provided by "The Circle of Love." The entire proceeds, including the money paid to the orchestra, will be added to the Biddle Family Fund. The donation for the dance is $1.

Annual Decal Sale On For L-W Band

The Lincoln-Way High School Band Boosters have launched their annual decal sale, the proceeds from which are used to help maintain the band.

At the recent meeting of the Boosters it was reported that 4,251 decals have been mailed to residents of Arbury Hills, Frankfort, Lincoln Estates, Manhattan, Mokena and New Lenox.

There is no fixed charge for the decals but the Band Boosters are hopeful that each of the recipients will use the enclosed envelope to send in a voluntary donation.

As a part of this event the band members will choose a candidate for "Queen" from each community and the winner will be decided by the percentage of decal contributions.

Crowning of the queen will take place at the Washington Birthday dance to be held at the high school on Saturday, Feb. 22. The dance is open to adults as well as students. Music will be provided by the Buddy Everett orchestra. Dancing will begin at 8 o'clock and end at 11. Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Coburn are the chairmen.

The Band Boosters also are considering other fund raising projects to meet the expense of the band and choral contests in the spring, the summer band trip to Virginia Beach, and the summer band camp.

The Lincoln-Way band will present its annual Anniversary Concert this coming Sunday afternoon, Jan. 26, beginning at 3 o'clock. The concert will be followed by a reception for band alumni, who are always invited to the affair.

Arbury Hills School Purchases Books For Library

Mrs. Edward Hovi
Telephone 479-5740

The Arbury Hills School recently purchased some $600.00 in library materials, notably books for the kindergarten through sixth grades.

The reading program is being bolstered by the addition of more reading material; books, pamphlets, and visual aids.

The Summit Hill Parent-Teacher Group's purchase of three film strip projectors and extra films for them were gratefully accepted by the school. There was also a movie projector purchased to replace the venerable projector which had been used for these many years.

The staff is making comparisons of the math program in the school to those of nearby schools and what would need to be done to improve the sixth through eighth grades. The lower grades were deemed satisfactory at their present levels.

The staff is also attending area meetings to stabilize the science program for the fourth through eighth grades so that the students will more readily mesh into the high school level of science in the local schools.

Beginning with the 1969-70 school year there will be a need for at least one more classroom for the eighth grade, assuming no major increase in enrollment. There will also be a need for more sanitary facilities, and more gym facilities.

In spite of the fact that the great majority of tax bills were much higher this past year, there was a decrease in the levy to the school. The new quadrennial assessment accounted for much of the increase.

In July 1965 the levy for the school was 1.535 per $100 assessed valuation for the school. In May 1967 the rate was 2.071 per $100 assessed valuation which included a mandatory collection for non-certified staff, secretary, maintenance, bus driver, etc., and the 21c educational increase voted in by the residents. In July 1968 the rate went down to 2.006 per $100 assessed valuation. Percentage wise the rate has dropped from a top of 30% to 21%.

The students participated this year in the Penny Parade for the maintenance of the memorial fund for the Carl Sandburg Association. Mrs. Martin Sandburg, Jr. is the treasurer at 313 E. 3rd St., Galesburg, Ill.

The memorial is the original home of Carl Sandburg. His birthdate was Jan. 6, 1878 to July 22, 1967.

In the school Penny Parade the collection was handled by LaVerne Wiley and Richard Fronich. The response was good for this ninth annual collection.

If you are near Galesburg and want to visit the Carl Sandburg Home it is on the west branch of the Lincoln Heritage Trail. It is open from 9:00 A.M. until 12 noon and from 1:00 P.M. until 5:00 P.M.

The girls sang "When Ere You Make A Promise" and "Peace".

While the candles were placed in the centerpiece the girls sang a Danish song, "Rosen Fra Fuhn". This closed the ceremonies of re-dedication and bridging of the juniors, and the lights were turned on.

The Cadettes were presented with their year pins, and the merit badges were presented. The Child Care

Badge was presented to: Mary Arcuri, Jerolyn Ferre, Debbie Mosner, Jean Osuch, Lydia Pasky, Jaci Rochelle, Linda Rutan, Anna White and Merry White.

Glue Aids in Healing Eye Tissue

Copyright 1968 World Book Science Service

"A simple dab of glue" can now close lacerations and perforations of the eye-ball (the cornea), according to Dr. Arthur Boruchoff of Harvard Medical School.

The glue, a newly perfected monomer called cryoacrylate, "promptly restores the eye's anterior chamber and remains in place long enough for the cornea to heal," he says.

To apply the sterile adhesive, Dr. Boruchoff transfers a small amount of it to a tiny polyethylene disc which he places directly over the wound, holding it in place with an applicator stick for 10 to 15 seconds.

In that time the glue solidifies and bonds with the eye tissue while the disc comes away readily. It has no toxic effects.

Dr. Boruchoff says that several of his patients too ill to undergo surgery would have lost their eyes if the adhesive had not been available.

One member of his surgical team has also used the method successfully to fasten a plastic lens to a severely damaged cornea. They now plan to evaluate its uses as a replacement for stitches after cataract surgery.

Meanwhile, at Columbia University Dr. Francis L'Esperance, testing the newest argon laser clinically for the first time, finds it preferable to the ruby laser and the zeron-arc lamp in coagulating eye hemorrhages.

The argon laser, an intensely blue-green beam, can be more accurately and precisely regulated.

It is only half the diameter of the ruby beam and one-fourth the diameter of the zeron, making it possible to concentrate on the lesions without injury to surrounding retinal tissue.

Because the blue-green part of the spectrum is more readily absorbed by hemoglobin, Dr. Esperance believes the argon laser will aid in treatment of many other vascular disorders.

With the articulated "arm" he has devised to accurately deliver the beam, it becomes a "light knife" or a "photon scalpel" that can cut out human tissue without the loss of blood.

NEW APPROACH -- At the recent meeting of the American Heart Assn. in Miami, doctors discussed many other ways of treating blocked arteries in preference to surgery, expressing the belief that eventually surgery for stroke blood clots will not be necessary.

HYPNOSIS EFFECTIVE

Doctors at the University of Chicago are demonstrating that in many instances hypnotic techniques are far superior to sodium amytal "truth serum" interviews in eliciting the truth.

DANGEROUS CONTAINER

Health Education and Welfare officers warn that poisons such as turpentine, gasoline, and pesticides should not be stored in reusable plastic containers. Plastics absorb the toxins and cannot be cleansed of them.

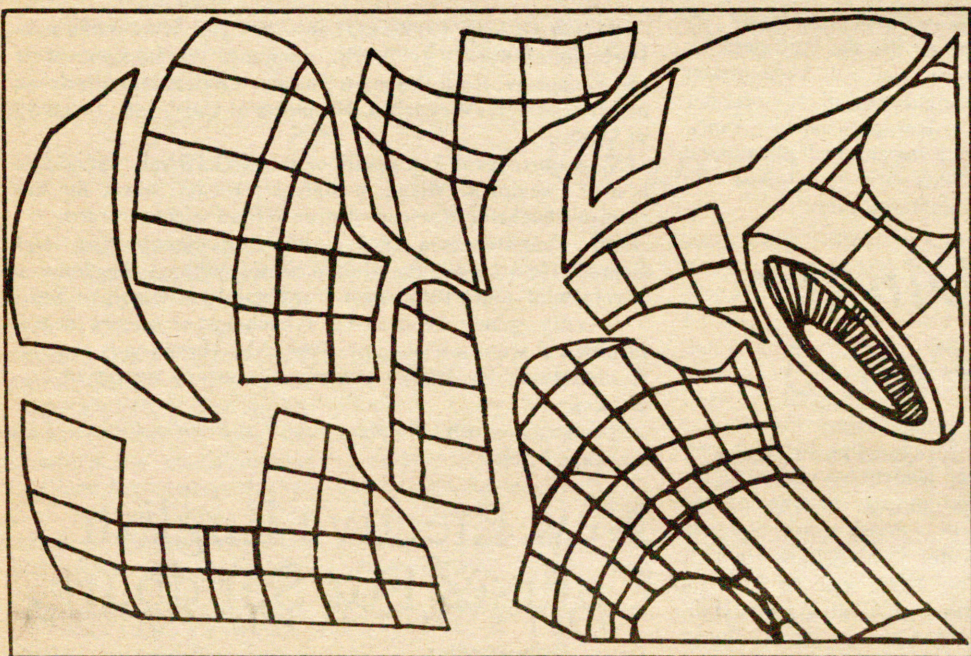

DANGEROUS FLY

Sleeping sickness is caused by long, wormlike parasites called trypanosomes. This long, rather thin parasite consists of a single cell. It is transmitted by the tsetse fly. As the disease progresses, the parasites attack the victim's brain. Unless treated, the disease is usually fatal.

Dangerous Dust Vs. Spaceships

Copyright 1968 World Book Science Service

Did you know that spaceships may need bumpers to protect them from dangerous dust?

Tiny fragments of cosmic dust, called micrometeorites, are swirling around in outer space all the time.

Even if a meteorite is only the size of a grain of sand (and many are larger), the collision between it and a spaceship could punch a hole in the ship.

Space scientists are looking at the problem of debris in space pretty carefully. The Pegasus satellites have very large, wing-like projections designed to intercept as many bits of cosmic dust as possible.

The Pegasus satellites have done a lot of useful counting, measuring, and colliding.

One of the most promising solutions so far has been to equip spacecraft with multiple walls. The big satellites will probably have multi-layered outer walls.

The outermost wall is a lot like an automobile bumper. The idea is that when the meteorite hits the outer wall it will disintegrate and vaporize into a gas.

Scientists still aren't sure, however, whether the bumpers will be effective against larger meteorites, say the size of marbles.

For the time being, and for the near future, the chances of trouble are very slight. Spaceflights have been short enough to avoid the problems of cosmic dust collisions.

But scientists are looking ahead to very long flights. Spacecraft are going to be bigger on those long journeys . . . and that means bigger targets.

Paste the picture on a piece of cardboard. When it's dry, cut out the pieces along the outside lines. Can you make a spaceship out of the pieces?

Freeze Food Gifts, Says Home Adviser

Christmas gifts of food may be difficult to keep fresh until the family can eat them, so count on your freezer to help solve your problem.

Here are some instructions from Bea Bagby, Will County Extension Adviser for freezing holiday foods successfully:

Be sure to re-wrap fancy breads and rolls in aluminum foil or saran-type wrap, or slip them into a polyethylene bag for freezing.

When fruit cake is tightly wrapped or kept in a can and frozen, it will keep indefinitely.

Package nuts in moisture-vapor-proof freezer wrap or keep them in a can. Salted nuts will keep in the freezer about six months, unsalted nuts from 9 to 12 months.

Almost all candies keep fresh for a year or longer when frozen and kept at 0 degrees F. When you take the candy from the freezer, don't remove the wrap until the candy has warmed to room temperature.

Cheese will keep for some time in the refrigerator, but mold will form if kept too long. Freezing will preserve cheeses for six months or longer, although the texture may change somewhat.

When you are ready to use the frozen cheese, thaw it in its wrapper in the refrigerator. Once it is thawed, let it stand at room temperature an hour before serving.

Hams, other smoked and processed meats like sausage, smoked turkey and smoked fish are all perishable and should be treated like fresh meat, refrigerating immediately and using as soon as possible. If you cannot use them within a short period, freezing will preserve them. Be sure to wrap these meats and fish in moisture - vapor - proof material such as freezer foil to keep out the oxygen that hastens rancidity. Polyethylene bags do not provide sufficient protection.

Canned hams should be stored in the refrigerator, where they will keep for an indefinite period. It's best not to freeze canned hams, since freezing will change the texture and may cause the container to burst.

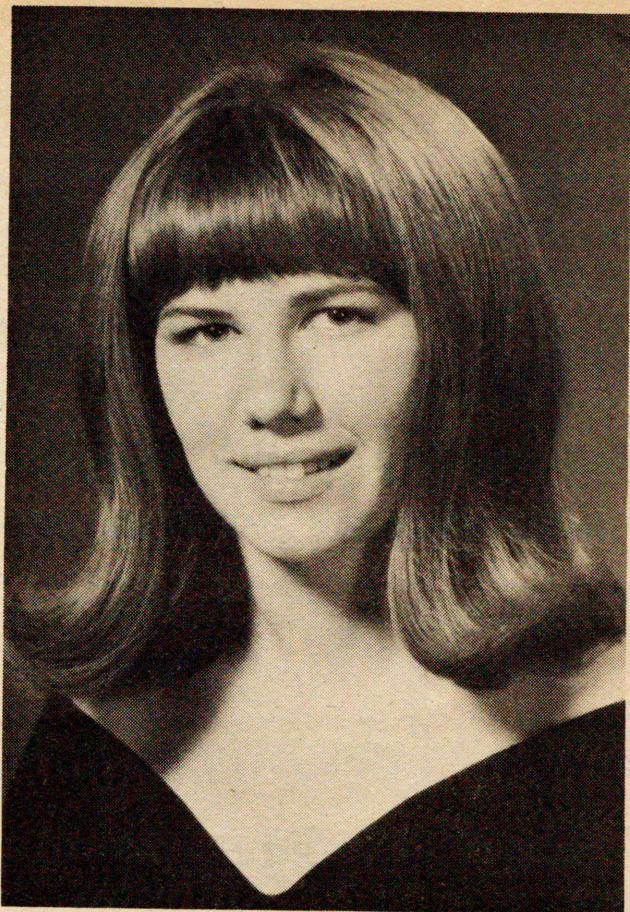

Dinner Feb. 5

Ticket sales by conservation leaders are underway for the annual meeting of the Will - South Cook Soil and Water Conservation District. The affair will be held on Feb. 5, 1969 at Marvell Hall, 3323 Chicago Road, South Chicago Heights.

New Elective English Courses For Sandburg

By Sue Miller

Philosophical arguments, hammering together stage sets, and viewing films will be new ways for upperclassmen to earn English credits at Carl Sandburg High School next year.

Next year's juniors and seniors will be able to take two different English courses, each a semester long, instead of the traditional English III and IV classes. This idea is being introduced to Sandburg to give students a wider choice of subjects.

Students will learn the basics in English I and II, and then go on to take the courses that appeal to them most. Miss Ruth Bardwick, English department chairman at Sandburg, said that students will be taught more thoroughly, and the new courses will prepare students better for college.

Some new courses that will be introduced are: rhetoric, philosophy, films, set design, business English, world literature, creative writing, contemporary literature, and advanced grammar.

Other courses being conducted now, or that are incorporated in the present English III and IV classes will also be offered next year. They are: the short story, poetry, English literature, American literature, Journalism I and II, debate, the novel, and speech.

There will be no more accelerated, average, and remedial classes for juniors and seniors. The English teachers believe this new idea will improve the department's efficiency.

Minimum Blend Price of Milk Set at $5.06

A minimum order blend price of $5.06 per hundredweight will be paid dairy farmers for Grade A milk delivered during December to plants within Zone 1 of the Chicago regional federal milk market order, Pure Milk Association announced today.

Zone 1 includes the Illinois and Wisconsin territory within 85 miles of Chicago city hall, plus Milwaukee county, Wis., and Winnebago county.

December Class I (bottling) milk utilization under the Chicago regional order was 331,470,178 pounds or 58 percent of the 567,405,823 pounds of milk in the pool. In both November and October, Class I utilization on the market was 65 percent. The December decrease in Class I sales is attributed mainly to the holiday season when schools are closed and an increase of about 4.6 percent in daily production of milk for the Chicago regional market.

The $5.06 federal order minimum price applies to milk of 3.5 percent butterfat content and is a blend of the $5.53 per hundredweight minimum order price for Class I milk and $4.30 per hundredweight for Class II (manufacturing) milk.

The producer butterfat differential on December milk was 8.1 cents per hundredweight for each one-tenth of 1 percent above or below 3.5 percent.

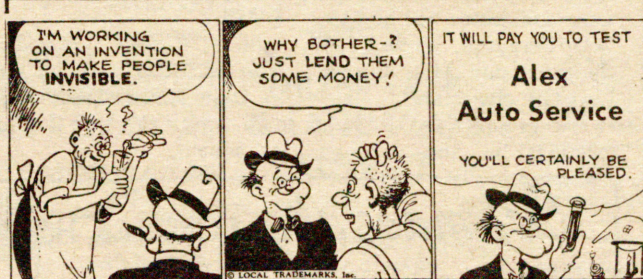

A superpool established by Central Milk Producers Cooperative provides funds for maintaining a standby pool, advertising and promotion, and supplies needed to meet market demand.

Central Milk Producers Cooperative is a group of Wisconsin and Illinois dairy farmer cooperatives, including Pure Milk Association, which supplies most of Chicago's Grade A milk. PMA is marketing agent for the group.

Dear friends,

We sincerely welcome any suggestions for improving our funeral service.

Sometimes we wonder if we are not too close to our problems. Extremely valuable suggestions have come to us occasionally from friends outside of the profession.

If you see any phase of our service which you think might be improved, we shall be grateful for your counsel.

Sports Show

Winter's bleakness will be dispelled for a ten-day period for the area's vast army of outdoors enthusiasts with the opening Friday night (Jan. 24) of Chicago's Famous Sportsmen's and Vacation Show at the International Amphitheatre.

The Amphitheatre will be converted into an "outdoors paradise" with complete sections devoted to boats, travel, camping, fishing and hunting and other facets of outdoors living and recreation. Producer Tom Durant will stress instruction with fishing clinics, boating instruction and advice from experts available in other segments of summer activity.

Particularly will this be true in the travel hall where vacations can be easily planned with representatives on hand for that purpose from nearly every state and a number of Canadian provinces.

A complete camping section with recreational vehicles, tents and data available on campgrounds throughout the states will be a popular feature for the growing legends addicted to this form of summer movement.

Parade of Outdoor Champions, Durant's star-studded stage and water spectacle in the center arena, will be outstanding. The cast includes John Bromfield, television's "Sheriff of Cochise" and "U.S. Marshal" and star of many movies; Victor the wrestling bear; Bill Fontana and his burling dog, Peppy; Ann Clark, archery champion; Ann Strobel, titled caster; Wes Harrison, "Mr. Sound Effects"; Ma Ho Pin, Chinese lady tightrope walker in her climactic "slide for life"; the Peck brothers, Randy and Dalton, and other northwoods lumberjacks in competitions of log rolling, canoe tilting, and tub races; Dalmation retrieving dogs, and Benny Spector's Sharpshooters orchestra.

Six thousand free seats will be available at each performance of Parade for show visitors. Exposition hours will be: Opening day, 6 p.m. to 11 p.m.; Saturdays and Sundays, noon to 11 p.m.; weekdays, 1 p.m. to 11. Parade will be presented once opening night and each afternoon and evening afterwards.

Auto Expenses Are Deductible

The Chicago Motor Club-AAA reminds motorists to include certain automobile expenses when itemizing deductions on income tax returns. Here is a list of deductions prepared by the motor club's legal department that all motorists may take:

--State gasoline taxes (6 cents a gallon in both Illinois and Indiana).

--Casualty losses not reimbursed by insurance or other means, if not due to willful negligence. Any deduction for damage to property used for personal purposes is limited to the amount the loss exceeds $100.

--Interest paid on automobile loans.

--Personal property tax.

--State and city sales tax on automobiles, parts, accessories and supplies (Illinois state and local tax is 5 per cent; Indiana tax is 2 per cent).

If you use your car for business, you also may deduct the following items in whole or in part -- depending on the extent of business use:

Motor Club dues; state automobile license fee; municipal vehicle license fee; driver's license fee; automobile insurance premiums; depreciation; gasoline, oil and lubrication expenses; cost of repairs and accessories; washing and polishing expenses; anti-freeze and winterizing services; garage rent; parking charges; and toll road fees.

Generally, an individual who operates his own car for business travel may figure the cost of his operation by taking a standard mileage rate, instead of maintaining detailed records and itemizing provable costs.

But this alternative is not available in connection with an automobile "for which a deduction for depreciation -- based upon a method other than the 'straight line' method -- has been previously claimed by the taxpayer," cautions the Chicago Motor Club's legal department, adding:

"The standard mileage rate is 10 cents a mile for the first 15,000 miles of business driving and 7 cents for additional business mileage.

"Parking fees and toll charges incurred in business driving may be added to the cost figure computed by using the standard mileage rate."

The club advises that if a taxpayer who otherwise qualifies uses more than one automobile alternately, he computes business mileage on all cars; and for purposes of this standard deduction, the total business mileage is treated as having been driven in one car.

Costs incurred in driving to and from home to a regular place of employment are not deductible for income tax purposes, according to the club. This mileage is to be excluded in applying the standard mileage rate to business driving.

Urges Use Of Safety Glass For Eyeglasses

Have you ever thought of an ordinary pair of glasses as a bomb? Sounds ridiculous? It's not though, consider this: Just as jagged metal fragments of an exploding bomb can destroy an unprotected soldier, so slivers of flying glass from a smashed spectacle lens can destroy your precious eyesight. So says a bulletin from the Illinois Society for the Prevention of Blindness.

Take the case of the 14-year-old girl hit in the glasses with a stone thrown by a playmate. Doctors needed three hours to remove fragments of glass from her right eye. Or the high school baseball player who had to undergo eye surgery after his regular glasses shattered when he ran into a fence while chasing a flyball.

Accidents like these happen every day, a Society spokesman said, and young eyes damaged or destroyed needlessly -- for safety glasses could have saved the vision of both this girl and boy. Thousands of adults and children risk blindness in eye accidents each day.

What are safety glasses? They combine protection with correction. Safety glasses become a shield for the eyes rather than an additional hazard in case of accident. Safety lenses are tough, shatter-resistant glass that has been heated in a special furnace and then chilled rapidly -- similar to the way steel is case-hardened. Safety lenses are also available in optical-grade plastic.

Large industry has long realized that ordinary glasses offer no protection for eyesight in on-the-job situations. Workmen know the difference and use safety glasses. Safety lenses must be able to withstand the heavy impact of a steel ball weighing 1 1/2 ounces, dropping onto its flat surface from 50 inches in height. And safety frames are sturdy, flame-resistant.

What about cost? Safety glasses cost but a little more but the protection is priceless. Then too, one won't have to buy new glasses if he drops them.

For more information regarding eye safety one may contact the Illinois Society for the Prevention of Blindness, 220 South State Street, Chicago, Ill. 60604 or telephone 312-922-8710.

ORLAND JUNIOR HIGH AMONG TOP 21 IN NATION

The Orland Junior High School has received nationwide publicity recently as a result of an article that appeared in the January issue of Nation's Schools, an educational journal published by McGraw-Hill.

The school was one of twenty-one across the nation that received a citation for design excellence by the American Association of School Administrators. The twenty-one schools (11 high schools, four junior high schools and six elementary schools) were initially chosen from hundreds of entries submitted at the 1968 AASA convention in Atlantic City, New Jersey. The Orland Junior High School is the only school selected from Illinois and one of only four junior high schools selected throughout the country. It is interesting to note that, of the twenty-one award winning schools, Orland Junior High cost less per square foot to build than any of the others. The basic construction cost was $13.05 per square foot, some $11.78 per square foot less than the most expensive award winner.

Among the outstanding design features of the Orland Junior High School is the library - learning - center. This mammoth facility, located in the heart of the building, has a capacity of 16,000 volumes. Because of its strategic location, no classroom is more than a few feet from the library. Another feature of the structure involves the use of demountable partitions between teaching stations rather than the usual concrete block or plastered walls. The 6,400 square foot gymnasium can be divided into two teaching stations by means of an electrically operated divider curtain.

Substantial savings were effected by utilizing the District's administrative staff in the procurement of equipment and furnishings, thereby eliminating the additional fees and commissions that would have been charged if such items had been handled by an outside agency.

According to Asst. Supt. Robert Cullen, "the district not only saved a substantial

The Orland Community

Orland Park is a suburban community with a population of nearly 6,000 located on the fringe of the Chicago metropolitan area -- about midway between Joliet and downtown Chicago. It is a community composed of homes, small business, forest preserves, golf courses and farmlands. Less than an hour's drive from Chicago via modern expressways, Orland Park is within easy commuting distance of some fifteen institutions of higher learning as well as the cultural and commercial conveniences of the city.

Orland School District No. 135 embraces approximately 20 square miles -- it includes the village of Orland Park and much of the surrounding farm land. The district provides a comprehensive program of instruction for children at the elementary and junior high school level with a total enrollment in grades K - 8 of almost 2,000. The residents of the District take an active interest in community affairs, including their schools. Among the many civic and fraternal organizations are the Parent Teacher Association, Chamber of Commerce, Lion's Club, League of Women Voters, Palos-Orland-Worth Planning Council, Junior Women's Club, Orland Youth Association, 4-H and various scouting organizations.

sum of money but was also able to maintain absolute control of the quality and style of all items of equipment. Much of the academic wing, including the library-learning center, is carpeted solely through the generosity of an anonymous donor who presented the school district with a $15,000 check to be used specifically for that purpose. In spite of the fact that no funds were allocated for aesthetic accoutrements, its clean lines and the effective use of colors in window coverings and various shades of face brick, give the junior high school a very neat, pleasant appearance.

The board of education, under the leadership of its president, Harry Kaper, provided the encouragement and support that enabled the architect and the administration to design a plan that is functional, economical, and at the same time provides a maximum of flexibility. There was a consensus among board members that for the age group to be served by this school there should be a design that would better suit their needs rather than the conventional box like facility. In addition, there was a commitment that the library-learning center should be the focal point or heart of the building, in order to accomplish a program of instruction that emphasizes independent study.

Staff involvement was also a key factor in the development of the educational specifications from which the architect planned the physical facility. Early in the planning stages, it was decided that a better school would result if it was designed to accommodate a specific educational program. With this feeling in mind, the teaching staff visited several schools in the Chicago area during which they interviewed teachers, administrators, and took notes of the physical features that were conducive to good instruction. Their observations and suggestions were included in the educational specifications which were turned over to the architect.

"We felt that, within budgetary limits, the physical structure should be designed to accommodate the instructional program rather than "bending" the program to accommodate the building," said Supt. Norbert Jerling.

The junior high presently houses approximately 320 7th and 8th grade students and can be expanded to accommodate about twice this number. In addition to a solid program of study in the basic subjects, students may participate in such activities as Russian, French, band, chorus, shop, and a wide variety of intramural and interscholastic sports on an elective-selective basis.

The Orland Junior High School, located on a 20 acre site at 14855 South West Av., was financed jointly by district construction funds and a long-term, interest-free loan from the School Building Commission, an agency of the state government. Since its completion, the school has played host to many educators and architects, some from as far distant as Dade County, Florida.

Merchants Defeat Rockford, 108-92

Orland Park's Marvelous Merchants put on an awesome display of firepower and basketball savvy Saturday night (Jan. 18) enroute to a 108 to 92 thumping on a fine, fired-up Rockford team. The Merchants were brilliant, continually finding the open man for easy layups and short jumpers as five players scored 16 or more points with Don Schook leading the parade with 26 points.

The Merchants had to be good this night as Rockford turned on a full court harassing defense that made the Orland Parkers work for every shot they took. Defense however, was the name of the game for the Merchants also as they forced Rockford to shoot from outside and blocked the lane and end lines to make it doubly difficult for the home team to work inside. Still it was Rockford's Lee Maypray that took game honors with 15 field goals and eight free throws for 38 points and former All-State Jasper Robinson netted 21 in a losing cause.

The victory improved Orland Park's hold on the second spot in the Illinois AAU ratings while top ranked Mendota added their 15th victory at the expense of Sycamore to remain unbeaten.

It will be showdown time on Thursday, Jan. 30 as Mendota's Dodge Boys invade Sandburg High School for the first time this year in what should prove to be the game of the year. Game time is 8:00 and Merchant Coach Noel Smith promises some surprises for the Dodge Boys.

"Price-Support Loan Activity High," -ASCS

Edward J. Meagher, chairman of the Illinois State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, said that farmers "are making a concerted drive this year to strengthen grain prices thru use of the non-recourse price - support loan program."

Chairman Meagher referred to U.S. Department of Agriculture figures which revealed that farmers as of Oct. 31 had placed nearly twice as much wheat under loan compared to the same date a year earlier. Interim price - support loan activity reports on other grains for which price - support loans are available show trends similar to that of wheat, he said.

Holding back on marketings is proper and desirable, the chairman pointed out. "It represents the intent of the farm program and shows that farmers are becoming increasingly aware of the need to spread their marketings over the entire crop year if they are to increase prices."

Chairman Meagher explained that by using the non-recourse loan, farmers get immediate cash and still retain ownership of their crop. This permits farmers to hold grain off the market and sell at a later date if prices improve from their usual harvesttime low. If prices do not improve, the producer surrenders title to the grain to satisfy the loan.

The USDA price support activity report listed 317.8 million bushels of 1968 - crop wheat placed under loan through October. Added to this is 212.7 million bushels under resale (wheat still under loan from previous crop years) for a total of 530.5 million bushels off the market and protected by the loan program.

The loan activity reports also show that three times as much barley had been placed under loan by the end of October compared to a year earlier; 2½ times as much oats; three times as much sorghum; and three times as much rye. Reports of later - harvested crops such as soybeans, corn, and flaxseed show similar upward trends in loan activity.

JJC Yearbook Given Top Rating

For the second consecutive year, the "Shield", Joliet Junior College District 525's yearbook, earned straight - A ratings from national critical services.

Long recognized for expertise in journalism, University of Minnesota's ACP (Associated Collegial Press) this year rated yearbooks, papers, and magazines from more than 900 colleges and universities across the nation and awarded JJC's "Shield" one of only 10 first places in its division.

Columbia University's Scholastic Press Association concurred, calling it "an excellent book that shows careful planning and execution . . . All in all the book is a good one of which staff and college can be proud."

National School Yearbook Association, an independent critical agency, said, "The 1968 "Shield" has lots of excitement, action, and imagination," and awarded it a "strong A."

Edited by Karen Burrows and advised by Mrs. Robert Schenk, the 1968 "Shield" spotlighted two dates significant in development of the junior college: its establishment as the first public junior college in 1901 and its Class I status under the state junior college act in 1968.

Using for a theme 1901 Awareness 1968, the book pointed to the community's continuing awareness of and responsiveness to its needs, both in 1901 and 1968, and to the student's growing awareness of himself and his world.
